

The Conference on Consumer Finance Law

Annual Consumer Financial Services Conference

May 30 - May 31, 2019 | Loyola University Chicago School of Law | Chicago, IL

About the Conference

This is a two-day conference. We believe this will maximize the use of your time, and focus our Program on only the highest quality of presentations, on the most pertinent issues.

On the first day, we will address issues common to most financial services companies, including data breach, payment cards, TCPA, debt collection, class action litigation and privacy issues. On the afternoon of the first day, we will have two separate tracks - Track One will address mortgage servicing and mortgage origination, and Track Two will address auto finance and FinTech.

On the second day, we will meet together again for additional presentations on issues of common interest, including credit reporting, fair lending, ADA compliance, trying consumer cases and ethics.

There will be no charge for in-house or corporate counsel or their staff.

CLE Credits to Be Provided

12 hours CLE credit of MCLE, including 1 hour of ethics, will be available to Program attendees.

Conference Facility

The Conference will be held at Loyola University Chicago School of Law's Power Rogers and Smith Courtroom, with the a breakout session in another classroom.

About Us: Conference on Consumer Finance Law

The Conference on Consumer Finance Law (CCFL) is a non-profit organization founded in 1926 by members of the legal profession and the financial services industry to offer educational services, publications and research relating to consumer financial services law.

A Governing Committee of members establishes policies and directs the activities of the CCFL.

The CCFL publishes the Consumer Finance Law Quarterly Report, a law journal that examines legislation, regulations, court decisions and related legal developments in the consumer financial services industry.

The CCFL sponsors the Frederick Fisher Memorial Program, a debate among industry representatives, consumer advocates and government officials on a topical issue affecting consumer finance. This program is offered annually in conjunction with the American Bar Association Consumer Financial Services Committee at the spring meeting of the Business Law Section.
